Welcome to NIPPON MARU and Yokohama Port Museum

National Important Cultural Property

Sail Training Ship NIPPON MARU

Sail Training Ship NIPPON MARU was built in 1930 as a training ship for cadets. The ship brought up 11,500 cadets for 54 years until her retirement as a training ship in 1984. During her service, NIPPON MARU logged 45.4 times around the earth (1,830,000 kilometers in total). The ship was placed under the authority of the City of Yokohama in 1984 and has been open to the public since 1985. This ship was once called the "Swan of the Pacific" when its sails were unfurled. Almost twelve times a year, the sails are unfurled in cooperation with volunteers and the ship can be seen in its full glory. We also provides marine educational programs to students. NIPPON MARU was designated as a National Important Cultural Property in 2017.

National Important Cultural Property

Yokohama Port Museum

Yokohama Port Museum re-opened after renovation in June 2022. Under the theme of "Port of Yokohama in history and life", the exhibits focus on the history, operation and role of the Port of Yokohama. In the history zone, we will look back on the history of Yokohama Port for about 160 years since around the opening of the port. In the rediscovery zone, the VR Theater, a new interactive content, allows visitors to enjoy the exhibition sails of the Nippon Maru and the cruise ship's journey through images. You can also experience loading and unloading containers in the gantry crane simulator. The Museum also provides special exhibition, lectures, and the other events.

National Important Cultural Property

Yanagihara Ryohei Art Museum
